Engineers as leaders – Join the conversation!

College of Leadership and Management (CLM)

Are you an engineering professional who works in or aspires to leadership and management roles in business and government? Join CLM Sydney for an informative session about why the new College was formed, how you would benefit from being a member, how to become a member, and how you can join the conversation on issues of engineering leadership importance.

If you have been looking for a 'one stop shop' on everything CLM, then this session is not to be missed! From hearing about the structure (Board and Committee), the strategy and plan for the next two years, to how being a member will benefit your development, this session will also provide additional support on the night for those who choose to become members.

Clarity will be provided around becoming a member of CLM and becoming Chartered in CLM, for existing and potential new members of Engineers Australia. The differences between Chartered in CLM and EngExec will also be explained, along with the general process of obtaining these credentials.

The CLM Sydney 2017 Committee has been busy working on the strategy for the next two years, identifying key areas of focus that will support the development of engineers as leaders. This session will provide an opportunity for members of the committee to share more information about two key initiatives:

- Raising the bar on leadership in the Engineering and Construction industry; and
- Improving collaboration with management techniques societies/panels (cost, risk, asset, systems, sustainability, quality)

The committee is also keen to share about upcoming events and conferences, with an opportunity towards the end of the session for those in attendance to ask questions and provide feedback on the plans for the future. There is much work to be done in strengthening and promoting the value of engineers as leaders, so we look forward to seeing many of you there to join the conversation!
